SPC Bey started wrestling when he was just three years old. His father signed him up for a local kids club, and from then on, he loved the sport. He chose wrestling because it felt the most fulfilling and he loves the feel of actual hard work. Through Wrestling, Bey feels he has always been pushed and progressed as an individual: mentally, physically, and emotionally.

"I am proud to embody the spirit of excellence, service, and determination as I march forward in both my Army career and Olympic quest."
